

ABSTRACT

A cable made from an blowing installation includes: at least one transmission medium of electrical or optical signals; and a hollow cylindrical tube containing the transmission medium therein. The tube is formed at a surface thereof with a plurality of 5 recesses.